by Mike Selinker

"Breaking bread by hand is very common, because of the desire not to let a knife, an instrument of war, touch bread, the bounty of peace," writes Maggie Glezer in A Blessing of Bread. Here, the bread and knife do touch. Six answers can go in front of "bread" to get a type of bread (e.g., RAISIN), and they cross six answers that can precede "knife" to get a type of knife (e.g., STEAK). Where they cross, you'll see what unites the bread and knife.
